

The Association
of Biomolecular
Resource Facilities

Research | Technology
Communication | Education

Membership Matters

August 2019

ABRF Academic Sponsors: Leading Institutions Sharing Best Practices

ABRF benefits from the diversity of its membership community to bring together scientists, technologists, and core facilities leadership from a wide variety of universities and research institutions. Expanding the reach of ABRF through increased institutional engagement improves opportunities for all members to learn from each other, share ideas, and exchange solutions.

ABRF's Academic Sponsors

ABRF's Academic Sponsors represent leading organizations that receive enhanced recognition and visibility throughout the ABRF community, along with consolidated membership access for their core facilities personnel.

Looking ahead, ABRF will continue to identify ways to engage more members of the community through organizational membership options, participation and presentations at ABRF regional and national meetings, and additional publishing and networking opportunities.

ABRF 2019 Academic Sponsors

(Click on the links below to learn more about these ABRF Academic Sponsors)

Cornell University

VANDERBILT  UNIVERSITY
MEDICAL CENTER

If you'd like to learn more about how your institution could benefit from ABRF Academic Sponsorship, please contact the ABRF Membership Committee or visit the ABRF web site.